Hello, grown-up! This set has 100 printable brain games for kids ages 5 to 8. They practice focus, memory, logic and steady hands, the skills kids lean on for reading, homework and everyday tasks.

How to use it

- Follow the 30-day plan. Each day has 3 or 4 short pages. Most kids finish a day in 10 to 15 minutes.
- Print only the day's pages. Or print the whole set and keep it in a binder.
- Levels go up every 3 days. If a page feels too hard, try an earlier level of the same game. If it's too easy, skip ahead.
- Mark the tracker. After each day, your child colors one paw on the tracker page.
- Day 30 ends with a diploma. Print it, fill in their name and celebrate.

What you need

A printer, a pencil and crayons or markers. That's it. Answers for the counting, pattern, memory, arrow and difference pages are at the back.

A good routine

Same time, same place, every day: after school, before dinner or before bed. Sit nearby for the first few days, read the instructions out loud, then let your child take the lead.

Focus Fox is a set of educational activities. It is not a medical, therapeutic or diagnostic tool. If you have concerns about your child's attention or development, talk to their pediatrician or teacher.

with Finn

Start at the orange dot. Draw a line to the star without crossing any walls.

2. Circle the shapes you saw. Careful: some are new!

Look and Count

with Ollie

Hoo! Look closely.

Count the stars, squares. Write each number in its box. Tip: cross each one out as you count it.

Two Hands Together

with Bella

Slow and steady hands!

Put one finger (or crayon) on each start dot. Trace both lines at the same time, slowly, to the stars.
